

SharePoint 2010, nGage and the Wave 14 PEP

August 7 2009

OI Software is proud to announce that it has been nominated and accepted onto Microsoft's Wave 14 Partner Evidence Program

Over the course of the next year Microsoft has four major Office products shipping as part of Wave 14 – Office 2010, SharePoint 2010, Exchange 2010 and the next version of Office Communications Server. The Microsoft Wave 14 Partner Evidence Program (PEP) is a private, invitation only program for dedicated beta testers.

Paul Henry, OI's CEO says "We're excited to be part of the PEP; it's great endorsement of our strategy to commit so totally to the SharePoint platform. And it's great for our partners and customers to know that we're perfectly placed to make sure nGage is a flagship application suite for the SharePoint 2010 platform."

The Wave 14 PEP is a Microsoft program designed to drive partners to participate in pre-launch programs, resulting in early adoption of Office 2010 and SharePoint 2010. Benefits of the program include access to pre-release Office Client and SharePoint bits, technical product documentation and beta technical support.

Pete Denness, OI's CTO says "From a developer perspective, having access to the latest technology well before general release is a great advantage. SharePoint is a vast platform; a few extra months of visibility can give us some unique insights into how to best exploit it with nGage and, importantly, keep our product well ahead of the game."

Paul adds, "nGage is already the only Enterprise Social Application suite that specifically drives the adoption of and the ROI in SharePoint 2007- and the only one that automatically inherits the themes and styles of an existing SharePoint 2007 deployment. Now we can also promise a roadmap to SharePoint 2010 with no speed bumps."
